DRY SKIN

Soothing and moisturising intensive care for dry to very dry skin prone to dermatitis.

Effect and use of the remederm Dry Skin line.

Dry, irritated skin prone to dermatitis no longer sufficiently acts as a natural barrier and loses its ability to retain moisture. This can lead to tight and irritated skin. Urea, vitamin A and valuable lipids in the remederm Dry Skin products replenish, hydrate immediately and intensively, normalise cornification and strengthen the skin's barrier function.

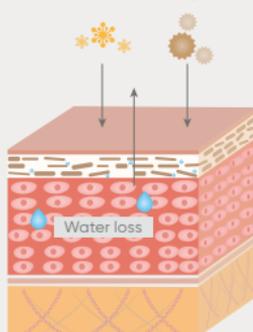

Skin with healthy barrier function

Repels dirt, bacteria and viruses

Dry skin with weakened barrier function

Dirt, bacteria and viruses penetrate the skin

Regular face and body care for dry to very dry skin prone to dermatitis with various combinations of ingredients and textures ensures that:

- The skin is soothed and becomes smoother and more resilient
- Redness, itching and flaking are eased
- The face and body care products are quickly absorbed
- The skin is left feeling pleasant

Main ingredient in the remederm Dry Skin products.

Urea

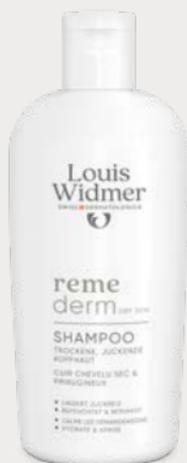

Urea (also known as carbamide) is a valuable ingredient for the care of dry and flaky skin. It is an end product of the amino acid metabolism and is found in the horny layer of human skin. Urea plays an important role in the regulation of the skin's water balance and accounts for around 7% of the natural moisturising factors of healthy skin. The urea content of dry skin prone to dermatitis can be reduced by more than 50%.

The effect of urea varies depending on its concentration. At a dose of 3% to 5%, it moisturises and strengthens the skin and above 10%, it also soothes itching and loosens skin flakes.

Urea – advantages for the skin:

- Intensive moisturising care for supple skin
- Boosts the skin's natural ability to retain moisture
- Gentle, antibacterial effect for healthy looking skin
- Smooths the skin and leaves it feeling soft
- Boosts the skin's natural pH balance

5 tips for dry skin.

Temperature changes, sun exposure, dry indoor air or poor nutrition can stress your skin. These tips help prevent dryness, tightness and itching.

1. Mild cleansing

Use mild, replenishing cleansing products in the shower or bath. Apply a rich and moisturising cream or body milk immediately afterwards.

2. Balanced nutrition

Eat food rich in multiple unsaturated fatty acids, plant-based colourings, polyphenols, vitamins and flavonoids to help the skin maintain its moisture. Alcohol and coffee dry out the skin and should be avoided.

3. Sufficient humidity

Cold temperatures and dry indoor heating draw essential moisture from the skin. Placing a humidifier in rooms can help counteract this effect.

4. Drink plenty of water

Provide the body with moisture from the inside. Drink enough water (around 2 litres) every day. This has many advantages for your health, with your skin being only one of them.

5. Matched skin care

When the days get colder and indoors dryer, replace light creams with rich skincare products that provide more moisture. Products with a water-in-oil base or urea that are rich in lipids are suitable.
